

ABSTRACT

A method and an information processing apparatus are provided for efficiently advertising a community provided in a virtual space. A user transmits a request for generating a community in a virtual space. Data relating to a community is newly generated and stored. Greeting sentences are thereafter sent to communities that are near the newly generated community in a virtual positional relationship of a virtual space.